

Dear _____

Please support:

1. A full investigation, with all results made public, considering policies and those who made them rather than just particular abuses, of ill-treatment of prisoners over the past two decades by the U.S., its agents and contractors, and governments to which we have rendered prisoners;
2. Legislation (a) implementing as permanent law the provisions of Pres. Obama's Executive Order on interrogation; (b) making it clear that the so-called enhanced interrogation techniques recently used constitute torture under already-existing U.S. law; and (c) stating that Congress does not delegate power to the President to overrule the anti-torture provisions of U.S. law, under any circumstances or in any part of the world.

Name _____

Address _____

City _____

Dear _____

Please support:

1. A full investigation, with all results made public, considering policies and those who made them rather than just particular abuses, of ill-treatment of prisoners over the past two decades by the U.S., its agents and contractors, and governments to which we have rendered prisoners;
2. Legislation (a) implementing as permanent law the provisions of Pres. Obama's Executive Order on interrogation; (b) making it clear that the so-called enhanced interrogation techniques recently used constitute torture under already-existing U.S. law; and (c) stating that Congress does not delegate power to the President to overrule the anti-torture provisions of U.S. law, under any circumstances or in any part of the world.

Name _____

Address _____

City _____

Dear _____

Please support:

1. A full investigation, with all results made public, considering policies and those who made them rather than just particular abuses, of ill-treatment of prisoners over the past two decades by the U.S., its agents and contractors, and governments to which we have rendered prisoners;
2. Legislation (a) implementing as permanent law the provisions of Pres. Obama's Executive Order on interrogation; (b) making it clear that the so-called enhanced interrogation techniques recently used constitute torture under already-existing U.S. law; and (c) stating that Congress does not delegate power to the President to overrule the anti-torture provisions of U.S. law, under any circumstances or in any part of the world.

Name _____

Address _____

City _____

Dear _____

Please support:

1. A full investigation, with all results made public, considering policies and those who made them rather than just particular abuses, of ill-treatment of prisoners over the past two decades by the U.S., its agents and contractors, and governments to which we have rendered prisoners;
2. Legislation (a) implementing as permanent law the provisions of Pres. Obama's Executive Order on interrogation; (b) making it clear that the so-called enhanced interrogation techniques recently used constitute torture under already-existing U.S. law; and (c) stating that Congress does not delegate power to the President to overrule the anti-torture provisions of U.S. law, under any circumstances or in any part of the world.

Name _____

Address _____

City _____